I'll Be There
AWARDS

September 1, 2016

Dear DC JJJ members, allies, friends, and family,

Over the last 16 years, DC Jobs with Justice has stood alongside the people of Washington, DC, raising our collective voice and demanding better. This year, we have campaigned to ensure employers provide fair scheduling and a path to fulltime employment, educated workers about new rights to wages and benefits, pushed for government accountability in enforcing hard-earned protections, and stood with striking workers. We know our strength is in the collective power of our community, which is why we come together each year to celebrate our work and recognize our leaders. Please join us for this year's "I'll Be There" Awards on Thursday, October 20, 2016.

This year's "I'll Be There" Award Winners:

C.H.O.I.C.E. Organizing Committee
Many Languages One Voice Committee for Labor Solidarity and Worker Power
Pastor Marvin Owens, Michigan Park Christian Church
Adam Graubart

Hosts:

Dia Bui & Darakshan Raja
Co-directors of the Washington Peace Center

DC Jobs With Justice is leading the District to ensure government and corporations work for working people. And our impact extends beyond Washington, DC; our campaigns are driving a national conversation towards stronger protections, better wages, and more just policies for workers across the country. I am excited to lead DC Jobs With Justice as we continue to build our coalition, amplify worker power, demand more from our government, and hold corporations accountable for their actions. Please join me in recognizing our hard work and ensuring a strong future.

We've provided multiple options that allow your organization to join us as a year-long partner, purchase program book ads to appreciate the awardees, or purchase tickets to the event. Attached you'll find more information. Please do not hesitate to contact me with any questions: elizabeth@dcjwj.org or at 202-674-2872.

In Solidarity,

Elizabeth Falcon
Executive Director

OUR PARTNERS

DC Jobs with Justice is proud to invite you to join us to both support the mission and provide visibility for your organization at no less than 3 DC JWW campaign and grassroots events (annual awards gala, national training conference, graduation dinner ceremony, etc.)

In 2016 your support as a partner will help us in our critical work to:

- Organize and develop worker and community leaders through our 'DC Just Hours' campaign
- Pass legislation for transparent and flexible scheduling policies for working families
- Implement our minimum wage, paid sick days, wage theft prevention, and 'ban the box' legislative victories of 2013 and 2014
- Conduct broad-based community education on workers' rights
- Provide materials, transportation, and food for campaign meetings and grassroots events
- Provide solidarity for organized actions against corporate greed significantly impacting low wage workers, working class families, people of color, and immigrants
- Train community leaders on basic organizing, coalition building, and fundraising skills.
